EUROPE ALL AGOG OVER REPORTS OF AID FROM AMERICA

CONGRESS UNEASY

Reparations must be settled before any loans will be forthcoming, assertion.

Washington.—The United States government has taken half the number of steps in its policy of aiding Europe which the sensational reports of last few days from various capitals of the world would seem to indicate. And the "irreconcilable" element in congress is unnecessarily disturbed. Nothing has happened or is likely to happen on their part of the Atlantic.

The simple truth is that the European press, possibly stimulated by irresponsible reports from America, is many leagues ahead of the game. The United States government contemplates no loan. Congress need have no concern about such a proposal. And it is premature to say that the situation is exactly what it was many months ago. No loan is possible until reparations are fixed at a definite sum and agreement made by Germany to pay the sum fixed. The situation is exactly what it was many months ago. No loan is possible until reparations are fixed at a definite sum and agreement made by Germany to pay the sum fixed.

WHEN THE FAIR SITE WAS AN ARMED CAMP

In 1861 the place now used for the fair grounds was an armed camp of men and youth who were preparing to go to war. It may not be generally known but you will get more of an idea after reading the story, "The Campsite," in the Saturday Gazette. You can begin with the story this week. Exactly 24 hours after the birth of the child, a star appeared on the ceiling of the dining room in the Taylor residence, directly under the room occupied by the new born babe and his mother. The star continued to shine for 24 hours, finally disappearing as suddenly as it appeared, 48 hours to the minute after the child's birth. The star was seen not only by Mr. Taylor, the father of Stanley Robert, but by Mrs. Alice Ireland, graduate registered nurse, who attended the mother and child, and scores of friends and neighbors. The star measured approximately eight inches in diameter and had five points, one brighter and somewhat larger than the others, being pointed due north. Several times Mr. Taylor touched the spot where the star appeared to be but his hand felt nothing. At one time he attempted the star by pulling the window shades closed. It continued to shine in the ceiling for 24 hours, then disappeared in a twinkling."

News for Farmers

Farm Bureau Official Information

STOCK OF COUNTY IN GREAT DEMAND

Recent Orders Show Need of Listing Stock to Handle Business.

The urgent need of a central farm clearing office in Rock county for listing surplus livestock and farm products for all farmers in the county, keeping records of production, making pedigrees and other information vital to the organized sale of livestock is brought out by recent inquiries from outside buyers seeking stock in southern Wisconsin. The establishing of a county-wide system for listing of stock for sale and a census and herds will be one of the points to be considered at the next meeting of the "Rock County First" committee.

John W. Jones, secretary of the Rock County Holstein association this week received a letter from Utah requesting information whether 500 grade and registered Holstein cows could be purchased in Rock county for distribution among farmers in the western state now taking up dairying.

Can't Fill Orders. "There is no chance that we can now fill this order, unless farmers at once list their stock," declared the Holstein secretary. "We can sell cattle by the carload at good prices if the farmers would only list their stock that has or can pass the 'T. R.' test with the association or the 'Farm Bureau'."

The demand for cattle at the present time generally is in carload lots, states that were once great growers of grain are in the market for dairy cattle. They send agents out to buy big lots of cattle that can meet the requirements set for health and production ability. The Holstein secretary is not in having orders to buy but in locating enough stock in Rock county to meet the orders. The stock is in the county but cannot be located quickly and effectively to warrant bringing in carload buyers. The committee hopes to correct this fault and prepare a system under which every farmer having good stock will have ample opportunity to share in the sales.

Several Sales Recorded. Ralph Hudson, Milton, recently shipped two carloads of grade Holsteins to the Dakota state. Northern breeder, said a registered bull to northern Wisconsin buyers this week. Peter O. Olson, Readstown, Wis., purchased a blooded Shorthorn, a winner at the Chicago International livestock exposition. From R. W. Lumb and son. He reports satisfaction in the treatment received in the county. A number of other sales are reported over the county indicating an active demand for Rock county livestock. The demand at the present time is mainly for good grade cattle with known production ability.

FUNERAL HOME IS PROGRESSIVE IDEA

Kimball Cites Similar Establishments in Larger Cities.

Characterizing the attempt of South Jackson street residents to secure an injunction against him as a step backward, rather than forward, Frank D. Kimball, undertaker here for more than 40 years, issued a statement Tuesday, urging that he be allowed to open up his proposed establishment at 133 South Jackson street.

He points out that in allowing the opening of funeral homes in residence districts, Janesville would be in line with the policy now in vogue in many larger cities, including places in Wisconsin.

"For more than 40 years," says Mr. Kimball, "I have owned and managed an undertaking establishment on West Milwaukee street. My room used in preparing for their last resting place, the remains of our departed dear ones, is within 20 feet of the door of my nearest neighbor, and not more than 25 or 30 feet from several others. In all that time I have never had a complaint about anything regarding my occupation as an undertaker. As far as odors and noise in connection with the work are concerned, there never has been any complaint on either."

"When I sold my furniture business and rented my store, I decided to locate my funeral work in a modern, up-to-date funeral home, such as are in use in almost every city of any size, and which is under a progressive, wide awake management, in the whole United States. In Milwaukee there has recently been located a funeral home on Grand avenue, in the most aristocratic, wealthy residential district and others are being established in the residence districts all over the city."

"On the Pacific coast, we are told by friends living there, and by traveling men, that funeral homes are almost entirely the only places where all the details of funeral work are carried on, and that way of taking care of the departed is considered not only perfectly legitimate, but also most satisfactory for all parties concerned."

In Business Zone. "I purchased a house I thought suitable in the second business zone, a zone established by our city government in which a legitimate business could be carried on. And surely a business as absolutely necessary as mine, must be legitimate, when conducted in a thoughtful, kindly manner. I also consulted these supposed authorities in city laws as to my being legal for me to occupy and to build the city established these zones and must abide by its own decisions. I am not a lawbreaker, within my rights. If our business is so objectionable, why do our worthy city fathers allow it?"

"Janesville is trying hard to become an up-to-date, progressive municipality, sane and modern in its business methods. But it never can when half a dozen misinformed citizens are allowed by injunction to block the wheels of progress. Can those people not understand that our city and state boards of health would not allow such a place, as the one pictured in Saturday's Gazette, to be seen for a single day, either in the business or residential district?"

"Dr. Harper, head of the state board of health, is a refined and cultured man, but he is a strict disciplinarian and an undertaker who allowed his place of business, mixed with such disagreeable conditions as referred to, would at once lose his license."

"Janesville will, I fear, if such an injustice is allowed, become a law-abiding and fearful enemies of progress, continue to be, as it always has been, a back number."

DISPATCHER, WHOSE MISTAKE COST TWO LIVES, LOSING MIND

Colpewea Falls.—A train dispatcher missed that coast two lives in the Soo line collision near Thorp last Thursday may darken the dispatcher's life by blotting out his mind.

Overcome with remorse because his mistake in orders was held responsible for the fatal crash, Ben Dugneau, relief dispatcher at Owen, is in a hospital here, his mind affected by the tragedy. Placed in a straight jacket, Dugneau groans vacantly into space and mutters unintelligently.

When he realized his mistake and saw that a wreck was inevitable, Dugneau ordered out a wrecking crew and telegraphed for doctors and nurses to make up a relief train. The wrecking crew was on its way before the flyer and the doubleheader freight train met head-on, a mile west of Thorp.

WALLACE REID, ILL WITH FLU, BETTER

Decline Follows Abandonment of Booze and Dope, Relatives Declare.

Los Angeles.—Reports available early Tuesday from the sanitarium where Wallace Reid, motion picture actor, is suffering from a breakdown which, relatives ascribed to complications following his breaking away from the use of whiskey and narcotics, indicated an improvement in his condition.

Reid's physicians said the actor's temperature was nearly normal, and that his pulse had dropped from 130 to 112. They added Reid was able to take a little nourishment.

The physicians said Reid's delicate nervous system, weakened by the use of drugs and liquor, but the specific ailment which threatened his life was influenza.

The Methodist Preachers Association of Southern California planned to ask the city council today to appoint a commission of men and women to make a thorough investigation of the use of habit forming drugs in Los Angeles. It adapted a letter resolution in which it was stated:

"It is persistently rumored that the names of some of the biggest producers and actors in southern California are linked with this (illicit) traffic. The cinema industry is either infected with an immoral element that threatens the industry's good morals and the decency of good name, or else it has been and is being maliciously slandered in an unthinkable manner."

RETRACTIONS ARE SHOWN BY BARBER

Catlin and Schwab Take Back Statements Charging Bribe Taking.

Madison — W. E. Barber, chairman of the Wisconsin conservation commission, made public Tuesday a retraction of statements made by him and his associates, Catlin and Schwab, in connection with the Wisconsin Fish and Game Protective association, in which they retracted statements made by them two years ago that Mr. Barber and the late James Nevin of the conservation commission, had accepted bribes, and were guilty of malfeasance in office.

As a result of their public retractions, Mr. Barber and the late Mr. Nevin from the charges they publicly made against them, a court action for slander, started by the commission, will be dropped. The affidavits, he said, speak for themselves, and completely clear up a matter that was brought before the state affairs committee of the 1921 legislature when the charges were made in March of that year.

Mr. Schwab in his affidavit given before the circuit court at Shawano, said that statements made by him at a meeting of the Shawano commercial club, March 2, 1921, in which he had charged Mr. Barber and Mr. Nevin with accepting bribes were falsely made on the basis of charges by Assemblyman Mark Catlin before officers of the Fish and Game Protective association.

Assemblyman Catlin said that his statements charging that graft existed in connection with the work of the conservation commission, did not refer to Mr. Barber or Mr. Nevin, and declared that "I have never had any affidavits or other reliable information reflecting in the slightest degree upon Mr. Barber's or the commission's work or connection with the conservation commission."

Referring to the charges that he had accepted bribes and had been guilty of malfeasance in office, allegedly made by Mr. Catlin and Mr. Schwab, Commissioner Barber Tuesday said that "for two and one-half years these attacks upon the commission and upon the members individually were kept up surreptitiously and we were unable to locate the source of them until we received affidavits of statements made by Schwab at Shawano."

"As I was the member chiefly aimed at in the attacks, Mr. Barber continued, 'I began action in the courts at once against Schwab. It is bad enough to have my personal integrity impugned, but it is worse to be charged with dishonesty in administering an important public office and I felt that I must get to the bottom of the matter through court action.'"

"We got but a little way in the prosecution of Schwab when he offered to make affidavits as to the source of the stories he had publicly told charging myself and the late Mr. Nevin with malfeasance in office. His affidavit was immediately followed with the one by Mr. Catlin. The two affidavits given herewith tell their own story."

"This should serve as a warning to others that charges of criminal conduct by public officials are dangerous unless said charges can be proved."

JOINING A BANKRUPT WORLD.

Misery loves company and miserable Europe wants America to be just as badly off as they are over the water if that is possible. It probably isn't at all likely that will happen. It seems to be the hardest thing imaginable for Germany to realize that she lost the war and must pay for it. We are told how great and prosperous she is and how Millionaire Stinnes has added to his millions every month for the past three years but that Germany will not be able to pay anything on her reparations. We wonder what would have happened to France if Germany had arrived at Paris and been in possession of all its ports in 1918? Would disaster to the world have cut any figure then? Must the whole world suffer just because Germany does not want to mobilize the wealth of its empire to pay damages entailed by her insanity of 1914? What disaster is there to be?

One of the acts threatened is that the United States will not be paid money owing by other nations. Therefore we are again asked by Mr. Bonar Law, repeating the proposal of Sir Arthur Balfour of last June, that we cancel our debt—not in so many words but that if we insist it will be impossible to pay since Germany cannot pay and if Germany cannot pay then France cannot and hence no one will be able to settle debts. But the total of the allied debt to us is but a small part of the reparations and we can still wait. In business adjustment when the debtor has arrived at the end of his rope so far as his ability to obtain immediate cash, the creditors get together and make a balance sheet of assets and liabilities. That has not been done. What has happened is that the creditors have taken the statement of the debtor that he cannot pay and there has been no examination under oath. The first requisite in the debtor is honesty, the second, assets.

No one believes Germany is quite so badly off as she attempts to make out. But there has been no proof on either side. Anyhow she signed obligations which brought peace and which she has been unwilling from the first to fulfill. We therefore confront the amazing situation that effort is to be made to restore Germany to a dominant position on the continent so that England and all Europe may be saved. In this elevation of Germany, France is to be sacrificed and the winner is to be the loser while the loser will be the winner. Into this paradoxical situation the United States is asked to become a party—a party to the further destruction of France and to the rehabilitation of Germany as the strongest power commercially of Europe. Such an anomaly has no precedent in history.

Surely there can be no sentiment in it; it is all a part of cold-blooded commercialism. The yardstick is the measure of the dollar. One cannot help but feel pity for France bled white by war and defeated in peace. It may be that Europe is to be destroyed but had the war been won by Germany, had Paris and the French ports been occupied by German troops, the destruction would have been more than a mere effort to save fiat paper marks and restoration of commercial values; it would have been complete ruin and greater chaos. Those Internationalists who wish to add more to profits find it better to support Germany than France already swimming with only the head above water.

The most appalling bankruptcy of Europe is not in a way of money but its bankrupt and helpless statesmanship. It has confessed its own poverty of governmental capacity and can only see the dollars of America.

A REMARKABLE CHURCH.

There is a church in Seattle with 7,500 members. It is not a people's church as we know them, by that title, but a denominational one, though very different from the usual church with which we are acquainted. It is a center of organized church-work with 25 Sunday schools and 1700 Sunday school attendants. There are Chinese and Japanese communicants, and sailors and seafaring men in number belong here or attend when in port. Wide indeed is the work of this church and a list of its clubs and societies is like that of a great city. And now in lumber camps in Washington and Oregon, hot beds of the I. W. W. and other isms, are being placed radio receiving instruments so that the sermon may be heard on Sunday and lectures and song services as well from a broadcasting machine owned by the church. "To these men," says the pastor, "we shall preach the gospel and the fundamental doctrines of the Constitution of the United States and thus counteract the literature and doctrines permeating the camps." One might call this a big work but it is more—it is a powerful instrument in holding a people from wandering off into laxity and will tend to hold men and women to high ideals and get the best out of life.

It's all right to talk about the third party but there are two more years of the party of the first part.

There is no such other family in the history of the United States not even the Adams, as the Bayards of Delaware whose most recent official position is a senator from that state elected in November. Sen. Bayard's father, grandfather, and great grandfather all sat in the senate and his father was a celebrated democratic leader and

National Aerial Day Proposed

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington.—A young woman in aviation clothes stooped beside a flier's grave in Arlington cemetery and placed there a pink rose, a spray of white chrysanthemum, and a bit of Jerusalem ivy. Twenty-four army and navy officers stood at attention. From overhead came the thrab of five planes flying in formation, while in the background a crowd of some 500 onlookers watched.

From this grave the young aviator and her little companion went to the other 49 fliers' graves in the national cemetery, and last to the grave of the unknown soldier, leaving each time the three floral tributes.

The young woman who paid this honor to the aviators who have given their lives for the country was Killian Gatlin. She is the girl who recently came east by the air mail route from San Francisco to New York, thereby becoming the first woman to fly across the country.

Miss Gatlin has been flying since 1911. Many of the aviators who were her friends have crashed to earth, leaving mothers who had been so proud of them, suddenly broken. Because she gets the point of view of both of the aviators who flew until they crashed in spite of everything, and of the mothers they left, Miss Gatlin is giving herself now to the cause of proving that the fliers are not forgotten.

She had just asked President Harding to permit her to designate the second Sunday in September as a national aerial day, when tribute may be paid to the gold star mothers of aviation and their sons. Her plan has the official approval of Major General Patrick, chief of the army air service, and of Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the naval air service.

To stop in the midst of our busy whirl to place a flower on a grave once each year and to think about men who have done their work and died, may seem a sentimental thing to some. The fact remains, however, that almost every individual, however unimportant, deserves to be remembered after his personality or for his achievements. Miss Gatlin points out that the man who provides in his will for a tombstone generally does so because he is afraid no one else will erect a stone for him, and that his name will be forgotten. The carved name on a stone is his one hope of keeping his name alive.

Miss Gatlin is determined that the fliers who risked their lives that aviation might progress are not going to be forgotten. Their mothers are to have the comfort of being assured that their boys have not given their lives for nothing.

Miss Gatlin tells about it eagerly. She is a blonde young woman with a boyish, straightforward manner of speech and gesture which, combined with her close sympathy for the maternal point of view and her rather feminine use of symbolism.

Everything about her method of paying tribute to the fliers has some significant association. She placed the Jerusalem ivy on the graves at Arlington because it is said that it never dies. Each part of the flier's costume she wore on her trip East once belonged to some aviator who has flown on "as Miss Gatlin puts it. The pair of white baby shoes she carries for a charm are associated with a flier who crashed just before his baby was born. These little shoes greatly interested President Harding when he talked with Miss Gatlin about the proposed national tribute. The pink roses are reminiscent of Lincoln's baby.

But to understand Miss Gatlin's way of remembering the aviators who have flown on you must go back to the beginning of her story.

"I began to fly in 1911," she says, "and was adopted by sister of all flying men and I adopted aviation as my toddling wing child. Lincoln Beachey was our leader. He was self taught like most of the pioneers. He had a genius for flying. He considered all flying men his brothers and divided everything he had with them. His mother was wonderfully proud of him."

In 1912, Miss Gatlin explains, Beachey was attracted by Peugeot's stunt of jumping the loop, and he was the first man in this country to perform the feat. Beachey's first demonstration of the stunt was a spectacular performance. That night Miss Gatlin stopped at his house to congratulate him. She was on the way to another house and she had in her arms a bunch of tiny pink roses, a gift to a new baby. But it was Beachey's big hour, and when he greeted her Miss Gatlin gave him the roses. He said that the tiny pink buds always appealed to him—they reminded him of a beautiful young girl.

Three years later Lincoln Beachey crashed at the San Francisco exposition, while 50,000 people looked on aghast. Miss Gatlin was there and she thought of Mrs. Beachey.

Later she heard someone point out Mrs. Beachey and say, "There's Mrs. Beachey. She's lost her boy, and pretty soon nobody will remember him. That's the way it goes."

Into Miss Gatlin's mind as she heard this came the thought of Abraham Lincoln's letter to another mother and his reference to "the solemn pride which must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice on the altar of freedom."

Could a mother really feel a solemn pride like that, Miss Gatlin asked herself. Or must she feel only the despairing loss that her son was gone and perhaps forgotten? She thought it over and decided that if the mother knew that her son was not forgotten she would feel a solemn pride in his broken-off, but remembered career.

On the anniversary of Beachey's accident, she went to his grave and laid a bunch of the pink roses he had liked on it. Mrs. Beachey heard of it and was cheered. For four years, each March 14, Miss Gatlin made the same pilgrimage.

Then the war began and she saw a heavy toll of fliers and she heard mothers saying, "I didn't raise my boy to be mashed to pulp. She felt as if she must do something to comfort the gold star mothers, especially those whose sons had been fliers.

"After the war," she says, "it dawned on me that I was rather selfish in doing what I had been doing for Beachey alone. So I invited the mayor of San Francisco and some others to help and in 1920 we had a ceremony of tribute with the first formation flight ever made in San Francisco. Mrs. Beachey spoke and explained that it was not for her son, Lincoln, alone, but in honor of all the aviators and their mothers."

In 1921 the project was still growing. Captain Eddie Rickenbacker led the formation flight and President Harding sent a telegram. Afterwards 1200 letters were received, many of them from mothers of foreign aviators who wanted to know if their boys were honored by the ceremony of tribute.

This year the tribute may be formally nationalized.

once ambassador to Great Britain. Thomas F. Bayard, Sr., came also near being nominated for president. We have few such families and only real merit will bring such a succession.

Germany's new pilot seems to be having a lot of trouble with the steering gear.

If the ex-kaiser wants work he might edit a "Letters to the Lovelorn" column in a Sunday newspaper.

After all, $20,000 seems too high a price to pay for killing a mere husband.

Germany appears to be shy of furniture since no one has heard of her sitting on the mourners' bench, the stool of repentance and it is a question whether she really occupies the anxious seat.

LET'S GO
The future's looking mighty bright,
Let's go!
Things are working out all right,
Let's go!
Wheels are turning, smoke stacks glow,
Flies are blazing high below,
Traffic signals green, and so
Let's go!

Hard times? They are in the past.
Let's go!
Setbacks came but couldn't last.
Let's go!
Gloom has held its last parade.
Grab the hammer, grab the spade,
There's a fortune to be made.
Let's go!

Skies are clear that once were dark.
Let's go!
Everybody on the mark.
Let's go!
We have done with frowns and whine.
Get set now and on the line,
Everything is looking fine,
Let's go!

We're a nation, free from hate.
Let's go!
We can keep it strong and great.
Let's go!
Land of freedom, land of mirth,
Jappest land upon the earth,
Let us show her what we're worth,
Let's go!

CONFESSIONS OF A CYNIC.

I believe it is time to stop worrying about the small nations and begin worrying about the big ones.

I can always tell when a man wears a rented dress suit, because it generally seems to fit better than one he owns himself.

I can't get any clear of a small community.

On the morning of election day I had every vote cinched except my opponent's and his three brothers. On election night I had a total of six votes and he had the rest. I'm cured.

I don't ever allow myself to believe that I am popular. As soon as a man allows himself to believe that there are several hundred people in the immediate neighborhood who are prepared to prove to him that he's a duce.

I am not fond of kazy men. If there is any loquacity to be done, I want to do it myself.

Hunter in north woods "shot a rabbit by mistake for a deer," which reminds us of a case of the New York tenant who shot a cockroach by mistake for his landlord.

Sign seen in New York: "Full chicken dinner with dessert, 35 cents." This sign was seen in 1892.

Sometimes people drop out of society, but more often society slides out from under them.

One of the main objections to politics is that there are too many politicians in it.

Who's Who Today

VISCOUNT KIKURU ISHII.

The news that Viscount Kikuro Ishii of Japan is expected to be named ambassador to Great Britain is of interest to Americans. He is well known and respected in the United States as a result of his services here on behalf of his country during the war.

Viscount Ishii came to the United States in June, 1917, as head of the Japanese war mission. It is generally accepted that it was because of his efficiency and fair-mindedness in handling the work of this mission that he was named ambassador to this country shortly after that.

He succeeded Admiral Sato, who was recalled.

He is a man of the people, having been elevated to peerage in recognition of distinguished services, including investigation of the conditions of Japanese in the United States and Canada.

In 1909 Ishii was knighted for his services in promoting the annexation of Korea, and in 1910 he became minister of foreign affairs. He resigned with the fall of the Okuma ministry in 1916.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO

Dec. 10, 1882.—Schools of the city have closed for a three weeks' vacation. Mayor Croft has been complimented for his action in stopping the show that was to be at Tappin's hall Sunday night. "La Belle Russe" was given by a good company at the opera house Saturday night. Sheriff Shaver is clearing the jail for his occupancy soon by Sheriff-elect Harper.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Dec. 10, 1892.—Cutters and sleigh-bells were out in all their glory yesterday. Janesville is advertised by its horses more than anything else, and the best of them were out here. "The Town" by Helen Company has had trouble in getting located in its new home, but finally is, and will start work soon.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Dec. 10, 1902.—Christmas programs are being held in the schools. Young ladies of Mrs. Dea Physical Culture class of the high school entertained her other pupils at a bloomer and blouse party at Central hall last night. The Marshall company strike continues, with nearly 100 out.—F. P. Roessling was hurt when struck by a bob-sled last night.

TEN YEARS AGO

Dec. 10, 1912.—Janesville is to have a recall election within 60 days on the present form of city government—a mayor and two councilmen. A mass meeting was held last night at which John C. Nichols, Peter J. Mount and E. B. Clark were named as opponents of candidates. Salvation Army will place Christmas kettles on streets Saturday.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

SWEET SPIRIT OF NITRE

Before we unlock this medicine I wish to have it distinctly understood that notwithstanding the most solemn assurance of any practical nurse or the word of your aunt or grandmother, I don't believe or intimate that sweet spirit of nitre will cure anything, although I think it is a thing to have in the medicine cupboard, if for no other reason, because it will help to prevent dopping the children when they're ailing.

"Per Satan finds some mischief still For idle hands to do."

as that wonderfully prolific author, 1812, wrote.

Sweet spirit of nitre is a mixture of spirit (alcohol), water and ethyl nitrate, and it is on ethyl's shoulders that most of the responsibility for the medicinal effect rests. Ethyl nitrate is a very volatile thing and will soon get away if the cork is not very tight. Indeed, much of the sweet spirit of nitre sold in groceries and general stores is only the spirit and of no medicinal value.

Sweet spirit of nitre is sedative or soothing to the excited nervous system in feverish states, and soothing to the excited circulation. It tends to lower blood pressure and diminishes the flow of urine and favors gentle perspiration. It practically never does any harm when used as a household remedy. It is an excellent remedy in the case of a child who is feverish with any acute illness, especially when the urine is concentrated and high colored, as in acute coryza, or acute sore throat or acute bronchitis. It is a gentle but powerful, calmative influence on the nervous excitement generally present in such illnesses.

Of course it must be a fresh preparation, not an old one that has stood long in the bottle and lost most or all of its ethyl nitrate.

For a young child a teaspoonful every hour of a solution of one teaspoonful of sweet spirit of nitre in a pint of water is the right dosage. Adults should take from half to one teaspoonful of the pure sweet spirit of nitre, in cold water, every hour or twice. It can't do any harm.

Ethyl nitrate smells like apples and wine, and if your sweet spirit of nitre doesn't smell of apples and wine there is no nitre there, only the alcohol and water.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

The Cure of Cancer.

Do you believe cancer can be cured by such methods as X-ray, radium, the Abram method, or anything else besides operation? Is it true that X-ray often causes dreadful burns? (Miss C. R.)

Answer.—Yes, cancer of the skin or surface is often cured by X-ray treatment alone. In the early days of X-ray before the accurate measurement of dosage had been discovered, burns sometimes occurred, but this is a very remote danger nowadays if the X-ray is in the hands of a physician. As a rule, X-ray or radium treatment is of value in the prevention of recurrence after surgical removal of cancer, and sometimes in treating inoperable cases.

Water Through Lead Pipes.

Is there any risk of lead poisoning from drinking water which flows through iron pipes if the threads of the pipes are smeared with white lead before they are joined? How about the use of chlorine water for washing face and hands, the water flowing through a lead pipe? (Mrs. E. R.)

Answer.—The use of lead on the threads of the pipe would surely contaminate the water, but water flowing through lead pipe may become so contaminated with lead as to be a health hazard, especially if used for drinking, not if used only for washing.

The Home Work Hour.

I am a sophomore in high school; six hours a day. My teachers insist I should study three hours every night (Madeline).

Answer.—A girl who attends school six hours should not study at night.

Q. Would the Sahara Desert be fertile if water could be provided? J. H. H.

A. The soil of this desert contains all the elements of fertility except moisture. The Nile river crosses the desert, and the valley of the Nile is one of the most fertile territories in the world.

Q. Why was the crescent adopted as a measure for measuring time? F. D. H.

A. The crescent derives its name from "crescent," which in Arabic signifies the part of the crescent of the moon, the seeds of which have from time immemorial been used to measure time. It is a thing of gold because they never vary in weight when they are dry.

Q. Is the Panama Canal zone owned or leased by the United States? C. A.

A. The United States did not acquire title to territory in the republic of Panama in the Isthmian canal convention of Nov. 18, 1903, but merely received a perpetual right of occupation, use and control of a zone of land 10 miles in width. For this privilege the United States paid Panama the sum of $10,000,000 and undertook to pay $250,000 annually as long as the country continued.

Q. Was it Hawker or Aleck who made the first flight across the Atlantic in an airplane? J. G. T.

A. Captain Hawker attempted his transatlantic flight a month before Captain Aleck headed off, but was forced to alight in the ocean 300 miles off the Irish coast. Aleck and Brown made the first successful attempt, flying in their "Vickers" Vimy" bomber from Saint John, Newfoundland, to Clifden, Galway, Ireland, 1,950 miles, in 16 hours and 20 minutes. June 14-15, 1919.

Q. When an officer has been cashiered has he been discharged? C. H. B.

A. Cashier, which by the way is an archaic term in the United States, is commonly construed among military men as having a more disgraceful significance than dismissal, although there is no analogy or parallel in the use of the word by leading English authors to support this construction. Macaulay uses the term in the sense of simple dismissal or removal from commission. Nevertheless, in ordinary military parlance it means dismissal in disgrace, and its use in any other sense is regarded as unjustified.

Q. Were there two writers by the name of Will Carleton? E. L.

A. Will Carleton was an American poet and lecturer, born at Hudson, Michigan, in 1847, who died in 1912. William Carleton was an Irish novelist and short story writer, 1794-1869.

Q. Are there any fake books older than Joe Miller's? E. V.

A. This book of jests did not appear until 1739. A collection known as Scoggin's Jest is said to have been

FUR COATS SELLING AT $45 IN GERMANY

Best in Automobiles Can be Bought Under $1,000, Says Bauer.

Hill! to the story of the land where—oh, girls, can this be true!—one can purchase just the dearest Hudson seal fur coat for $45 and a nifty little Roth-Kellogg car for $800. Where a five dollar bill brings so much currency that it takes a suitcase to carry away the change, tailor-made suits for men at $5 and the best ever shoes for 90 cents.

All sounds like a Sinbad fable but with fingers "eriss-cross my heart" it is the story which Otto Bauer tells upon his return to this city last Tuesday night after spending 10 months in Stuttgart, Germany.

German currency has depreciated so in value that all American travel through Germany are able to buy American dollars. As in all good things there is a restriction clause which says that not over $400 worth of merchandise can be taken out of the country.

Factories Still Operating

Mr. Bauer spent several months in Stuttgart, a city about the size of Milwaukee. His mother and five brothers and sisters live there. Mr. Bauer says that while the factories are all operating and industries active, Germany is forced to buy much of her raw material through the foreign exchange.

War brides are not scarce. An ex-serviceman living in Dixon, Ill., went over on the same boat, the "Orbita," with Mr. Bauer to claim a little fraulein living at Coblenz, Germany, as his bride. The romance blossomed while he was in the army of occupation during the war and somehow, well, you know how it is, he just couldn't forget the maiden of the Rhine.

War Romance Many

Returning on the "Amerasia," Mr. Bauer encountered two German girls coming to this country to wed men whom they had met during the war. In accordance with the ruling of the United States, which says that they must be married before being admitted to these shores, the two couples were married on board ship with the Goddess of Liberty as the chief witness. Nice picnic, sensible German girls, it yes, but Mr. Bauer said that he would not take either one of them because they spent most of the time, while on board ship, in changing their attire and promoting the deck-chair, la, dashing German maid.

BELOIT DAIRYMEN BACK ASSOCIATION

Day of Guessing in Farming
Over, Declares J. A. Craig, Janesville.

"Farmers are drifting towards over-organization," J. A. Craig, Janesville, told members of the Beloit Dairy Men's Back Association at their meeting held in the Beloit Y. M. C. A. Saturday, "and the thing for them to do is to discriminate between those organizations which are of the most benefit to them, and those which are of the least benefit."

"The division should be made into major organizations and minor organizations, and those which are of duplicate nature as many of them are, should be consolidated," he declared. "What Beloit county needs is an agricultural department in the court house, which will be a central point where complete agricultural data can be obtained and the same as in other departments located at the court house."

"All factors in the county should be willing to support such a department, for 95 per cent of the land in Beloit county is owned by farmers, and this totals $10,000,000 in taxable property. The combined totals of cities and villages in the county cannot reach the figure, which is conclusive evidence that farming is a business of huge proportions. The tax payers of the county should be willing to support such a department and appropriate funds which would allow a capable man to be in charge."

"The great trouble with the farmer has been the slowness he has exhibited in keeping accurate records. He has been slow to put farming on a business like basis. The question of keeping accurate records is important, and should not be neglected."

"Fruitful Herd."

"The trouble with farmers records is that they are the last thing thought of, however, the slump of 1920 has brought you to your knees and now you are grasping at any sort of organization, which you think will help you out of your predicament. But with all these organizations, they in themselves can not bolster you up but you will have to get to your knees and dig and work over your individual problems for your selves."

"You can't put dairy cattle on your hands and be regardless of their feed. The time is past when you can say, 'I haven't the time to visit the milk, or test, or do other important things. You must know what every animal is doing, the cost of her feed, and whether she pays or not."

"And when you obtain the records you must study them. The cow tests, the lactometer tests, the figures, the results of your study might be heart breaking, for perhaps some of the cows you think are the best will be the poorest, and you will have to bid them but then is the time when you must have the courage to do the trick. You can't carry a lot of bawlers in your stables."

"A man in the dairy business can't afford to be out of the cow's record book more than he can an accountant. The day of guessing is gone."

A resolution was presented by W. J. Dougan urging Earl Smith, the leader, to remain with the Beloit Association for another year, also expressing appreciation for what Mr. Smith has done for the association. The resolution was unanimously adopted. Mr. Smith would not definitely state whether he would remain for another year. The members voted to retain Mr. Smith as long as he would stay.

Emotion was made and seemed to have R. T. Glasco call the directors of the cow testing association to a conference to be held at Janesville in the near future, at which meeting some discussion and some action should take place in an effort to have the fair boards arrange for an exhibit of Friesian cows, and have a re-arrangement made in the testing association should be at the lower part of the fair where they could exhibit records, and show the benefits to be derived from the work. About 24 men were at the banquet which was served at noon. After the principal speakers were through, Earl Smith gave a report. Members of the association were called on to give talks of a minute duration. Each member declared he was heartily in favor of the association and was going to join next year.

"Nativity" Drama Given at Church

An impressive observation of Christmas was presented at 5 p. m. Sunday in the candle light services at Presbyterian church. "The Nativity" drama was enacted.

Mrs. Arthur Peterson gave a vocal solo, with Mrs. Eber Arthur also gave a violin solo. Singing of Christmas carols by the congregation preceded the drama.

Those who took part in the drama were Misses Zilla McDowell, reader; Gertrude Crawford, Angel Gabriel; Jessie McFarlane, Mary; George Higgins, Zechariah; Malcolm Haviland, Rona; Paul and Robert McFarlane, wise men; Katherine Harper, angel; Gordon Shurtliff, shepherd; primary children, angel hosts.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur and Mrs. J. C. Koller gave an instrumental number, playing the violin, cello and piano.

what the French and British capacity to pay their war debts or interest is possible. The United States government isn't a party to those penal sections of the Versailles treaty but can use her diplomatic influence to persuade France to agree not to use those penalties.

Some of the cable reports from Paris indicate that the French government wants to know the American proposal and wants to see a loan floated before it will decide what to do about these military clauses. That's a line of reasoning which will bring collapse to the informal negotiations now going on if persisted in.

French Policy Decides

The whole situation really revolves now as it has for four years around French policy. The American government knows the big task ahead and is feeling its way cautiously. To reveal its method of approach and the details of its argument would be to make difficult the continuance of negotiations. The idea that a rigid program has been worked out or that a formula has been devised to save Europe from disaster is unfortunately not true. The government here would such a program and wants such a the situation officially might mean "spilling the beans."

But the situation is not cloaked in mystery. It is all too obvious to those who have studied the circumstances leading up to the present crisis in Europe. There are no new facts. The international bankers are ready to lend them money to the conclusion that they might be able to float a loan of a billion and a half dollars to help Germany, provided certain things were done by France and Germany. On the one hand Germany was to make certain internal reforms looking to the balancing of her budget and the stabilization of the mark. On the other hand France was to agree that the loan would be a prior lien on Germany's assets and was to give the Versailles treaty which permits France to take territory as a penalty for default in payment of reparations.

No Loan Until—

Until those obnoxious clauses of the treaty are wiped off the slate no loan is possible. The United States government isn't a party to those penal sections of the Versailles treaty but can use her diplomatic influence to persuade France to agree not to use those penalties.

Some method of arbitrating this dispute and compelling the acceptance of the decision of the arbitrating nation or tribunal must first be found, before anything else can be considered, even the idea of foregoing interest on allied war debt or the major funding operations which the American funding commission is preparing to discuss with the debtor nations in the early part of 1923.

One thing at a time—and not so fast—for diplomacy moves slowly. This is the word of caution of officials today as they watch the public not to expect America to be able to accomplish almost anything. For, after all, it is an almost inflexible French government whose views must be moulded to conform with the British-American view before Europe can be materially helped by any formula.

formula but must first satisfy itself of what can be done. The central controversy is about reparations. Un-til that is settled there is no use thinking of loans or even economic conferences. All the stunts which Europe on the part of the United States can be momentarily set aside while the government here endeavours to mediate as between France and Germany and Great Britain, on the amount of reparations. The United States is a party to that portion of the treaty of Versailles dealing with the fixing of the amount of reparations and can take the initiative in proposing a settlement. The United States, as one of the victors in the war, is entitled to say what she believes the vanquished shall pay.

MILK FLOWS AFTER MAIN ST. COLLISION

South Main street was turned into a milky way for a few minutes Saturday morning, when a Bonniwell motor truck collided with a wagon of the Merrick Dairy company, breaking a number of bottles of milk. The wagon was partially demolished. The accident occurred near the Racine street intersection.

Car Driven 700 Miles in 2 Days

Charles E. McWatty, Waunakee, arrived in Janesville, Monday, to claim the Nish touring car found by police here last week as the one stolen from him in Madison, Dec. 11. He says the speedometer shows the car was driven more than 700 miles in the two days it was missed, and that it had been given hard usage, apparently by joy-riders, as two caps and an overcoat belt were found in it. "An extra tire had been removed. When found on Holmes street, the car had on Minnesota license number 73-955, while the license when stolen was Wisconsin dealer's—1431-A."

VILLAGE HOTEL BURNS

Greenleaf, Wis.—The Luck hotel was destroyed by fire here Friday morning with a loss estimated at $10,000.

New Brunswick, N. J.—County Judge Daly on Friday sentenced Raymond Schneider, youth who accused Clifford Hayes of the murder of the Rev. Edward Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, to two years in the state reformatory for perjury.

Seeks Runaways—Another pair of Madison boys are being sought by police in Janesville, at the request of their parents. The boys, aged 16 and 17, attend high school in the Capital city. They are not the same ones who ran away several weeks ago.
